Museum mavens(-to-be) — Elsie Kanin introduces herself to her fellow docents-in-training on Monday, June 4, at the first meeting of the first class of guides for the Jewish Museum Milwaukee, which is now being built in the Milwaukee Jewish Federation's Helfaer Building on Prospect Avenue. The group of 40 prospective docents will meet on Mondays through November to study Jewish belief, Jewish and Milwaukee history, addressing diverse audiences and presentation skills. The opening of the new museum is planned for early 2008. Photo: Andrea Waxman.
